WEEK OF PRAYER GREAT SUCCESS

Special Services Held at Main Street
Presbyterian Church With Delightful Music

The special week of prayer held in the Main Street Presbyterian church proved to be a success even beyond expectations. It was marked however with one or two disappointments. The Rev. Willis Smith who was to have been here on Monday, was taken ill at the last moment but the Pastor filled his place and explained the meaning of the week of prayer. On Tuesday night, the Rev. R. T. Gettys of Fredonia, gave a fine lecture on the origin of the Church universal. Wednesday brought another disappointment, in that the Rev. Mr. Claycomb was prevented from coming. However, his place was admirably filled by Rev. Mr. Dillon, pastor of the Marion Methodist church. The Rev. Mr. Troxler, of Mayfield, on Thursday night, brought an inspiring message on the Christian teaching and duty of the strong helping the weak. Dr. Crawford, of Paducah, on Friday night, in a very forcible manner, portrayed the trend of modern education and its lack of moral and christian teaching.

Making America Christian was the subject of Dr. King's lecture Saturday night, in which America's needs along these lines were forcibly declared.

Sunday morning, the Pastor, Rev. E. N. Hart, showed the world's need and made a strong appeal for volunteer workers. In the evening, Dr. Jas. F. Price capped the whole program in a strong appeal for more prayer.

All who went enjoyed not only the feast of words, but the delightful singing and music.

OIL FOUND IN UNION COUNTY

Last Thursday oil was struck on the George Proctor farm near Kings Mills. It was found at a depth of something over 600 feet. The quality is said to be good but the quantity could not be determined because of salt water. Drilling has been stopped and the water will be eased off so that the quantity of the flow can be ascertained.

Mr. Proctor and Jacob Smith, of Carmi, Ill., are sinking the well. The drilling rig is operated by Will Epperson and Ed Duncan.

REVIVAL AT MAIN STREET PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The revival to be held at the Main Street Presbyterian church will start Sunday night, January 15th. The Pastor, Rev. E. N. Hart, will do the preaching.

Miss Edith Fitzpatrick, of Prestonburg, a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music will have full charge of the singing. Miss Fitzpatrick is the possessor of an unusually strong, sweet soprano voice, besides being a natural leader, with very winsome manners, has traveled very extensively with the Chautauque companies and our community will be delighted with the singing of this young lady, who has always won her way into the hearts of the people.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend this meeting.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Chamber of Commerce held a brief meeting on the night of the 6th in the Graded school building. There was a good attendance and owing to a short session there was not much new business. A committee was appointed to correspond with our Representative and Senator asking them to get in touch with the State Road Commissioners for the purpose of seeking to get action on the Federal Highway thru Crittenden. Several committees made reports and some new members were added.

The brevity of the meeting was for the purpose of hearing Mr. J. B. Speed of Louisville make an address in the auditorium.

A splendid audience assembled to hear the address. Mr. Speed is a very attractive speaker and the address was enjoyed by the audience.

He mainly touched on city and county interests, educational, civic and moral interests, stressing the importance of co-operation.

HON. E. L. NUNN BADLY INJURED

On Monday of last week Mr. E. L. Nunn was thrown from his horse while riding in East Marion and severely hurt.

One or more of his ribs were fractured and his collar bone was broken besides other internal injuries. Dr. Cook was called to dress the wounds. Mr. Nunn is still confined but convalescing.

The Hotel Crittenden has changed management. Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Guess moved in Monday. Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Hammack have moved to the Wilsonia temporarily.

"WILSON HOUR" JAN. 16 OPENS TRIBUTE CAMPAIGN

Nation-Wide Movement to Endow
Foundation in His Name Will Begin at Noon

"The sixty minutes between noon and 1 o'clock Monday, Jan. 16, are to be given by his friends to Woodrow Wilson. So said Franklin D. Roosevelt, National Chairman of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, speaking yesterday of the plans for a "Wilson Hour." The ceremony will mark the beginning of the campaign to raise $1,000,000 or more with which to endow periodic awards in Mr. Wilson's name for distinguished public service.

"The national Committee for the Woodrow Wilson Foundation," continued Mr. Roosevelt, "has designated this period as the 'Wilson Hour' with the request that it be observed by all friends of Mr. Wilson and believers in his principles throughout the country. During that hour contributions will be received but not sought."

"In that hour, in every community in the country we hope the friends of Mr. Wilson will stand up and be counted. Every person who stands by the principles for which Mr. Wilson fought will have the opportunity to express his allegiance to the faith that is within him. The 'Wilson Hour' will give an opportunity to this generation to show to what extent it can recognize greatness in its own time."

Hamilton Holt, Executive Director of the Foundation, said observance of the "Wilson Hour" will be on a national scale, as the Foundation Committees in the States are planning to signalize the event in many communities.

METHODIST CHURCH

Church School at 9:30 A. M. Departments organized, graded literature, fine fellowship and cordial welcome to every one. Come help us make this the best year in the history of the school. Class No. 3 is planning for big things. This is a class with a big program. Let every man boast for this class.

Preaching every Sunday evening at 7:00. Fine orchestra, good choir and congregational singing.

You are always welcome.

PUBLIC NOTICE

A number of enquiries have been coming to me in regard to certain ordinances. Unfortunately, as your own investigation will verify, with the present arrangement of ordinances to look for one is very much like "looking for a needle in a haystack." Your Police Court can not function as it should unless all laws are arranged systematically and available at all hours.

Because of this condition the City Attorney has been working over the books arranging and indexing all ordinances that can be found. He has run across a number of old ordinances of more or less merit, and has called my attention to several of them.

Respect for the enforcement of law is not inspired by sudden and unexpected dragging into Police Court ignorant violators, but rather by ample forewarning followed by continuous, impartial calling to account of each and every offender, thru the vigilance of the City Marshall backed by the sentiment of the citizenship.

The Kurfew Ordinance is one that has been overlooked and the people are asking that it be enforced. It requires all children under 16 years of age be off the streets after 8:30 P. M. unless accompanied by a parent or guardian or unless sent on an errand by a person having authority over said child. City Marshall shall ring or have rung Courthouse bell at that hour and it shall be his duty to report each violator of said ordinance to the Judge of Juvenile court to be dealt with as the law provides.

If the requirements of this law are not what they should be to meet present conditions, the matter can be brought before the Council and amended at the next regular meeting.

Formal notice has been given to the Marshall to begin the enforcement of this law on the 15th of this month, and all parents will please take notice and co-operate in its enforcement.

Respectfully yours,

REBE BOSWELL, Mayor

Maurie Boston went to Tennessee this week on business.

Crittenden Steers Bring Top Prices

The highest price obtained on the market yesterday for cattle was for 17 head of high grade Hereford steers averaging 1145 which sold for $8 per cwt. This consignment of cattle was bred and fed by J. I. Clements of Marion, Ky.

These cattle were fed principally on corn and oats making an average gain of three pounds per head per day. Another consignment of steers from Crittenden county was a lot of 47 mixed grade of steers averaging 1020 pounds that sold for $7.25, the next highest price for steers on the market. This consignment was fed and shipped by W. D. Sullenger of Marion.

These cattle were fed principally on corn, silage and cotton seed meal. Mr. Sullenger states that these cattle made satisfactory gains and he as well as Mr. Clements was well pleased with the sale.

LAW ENFORCEMENT MEETING

On the evening of the 9th at the Graded School building quite a number of our citizens met to discuss the importance of organizing the citizens of Marion and Crittenden County in a league to seek the enforcement of the laws.

To begin with Mayor Boswell was called on to act as temporary chairman, after making some pertinent remarks he called for nominations for permanent chairman and Mr. T. H. Cochran was elected and presided. Mr. G. W. Boogher was elected secretary.

Revs. J. F. Price and E. N. Hart made addresses. Rev. Hart spoke of his experiences in one of the mountain towns and the lawless conditions there and how he and a few women turned the tide which finally changed the situation.

When Judge C. S. Nunn was called to the floor he began by saying that Marion and the county were living over a smoldering volcano. Clem struck fire and aroused the crowd to a heated enthusiasm.

Hons. John A. Moore, T. C. Bennett and others made telling addresses resulting in every man present pledging himself to do his part to enforce the laws by standing behind the officers of the law and furnishing the necessary evidence for the conviction of law breakers and their punishment. The spirit and enthusiasm of the meeting was enough to alarm the moonshiners and boot leggers as well as all law breakers. It is to be hoped that the thing will not die "aborning" but let the spirit be handed out to the whole county.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

We, the citizens of Marion, Crittenden County, Kentucky, having met this 9th day of January 1922 in a meeting of the Law Enforcement League, after due and careful discussion, have arrived at the following conclusions:

That the anti prohibition forces are making a great effort to thwart the prohibition laws of this country, and that great efforts are being made to introduce and pass a measure to permit the sale of beer and wines;

Therefore: Be it resolved that we express to our Senators Hon. A. O. Stanley and R. P. Ernst, a vote of renewed confidence and that we urge upon them to stand firm and steadfast in all measures to prevent this law for the sale of beer and wine becoming effective. And we urge measures that shall compel a stricter enforcement of all laws, especially the prohibition law, thruout the country.

And that a copy of this Resolution be sent to our Senators, A. O. Stanley and R. P. Ernst, and to the Kentucky State Legislature, and that said Resolution be printed in the Crittenden County paper.

On behalf of the citizens of Crittenden County, Kentucky.

Signed by 53 citizens of Marion.

WOOSLEY-SULLINGER

On December 31, Mr. W. G. Sullenger and Miss Lucy Woosley were happily married at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. George Woosley of Edmonson county.

The bride is a handsome young lady, highly cultured and well educated. Mr. Sullenger is a son of our Circuit Clerk and young Sullenger was reared on the farm and is a splendid young man. He is now Superintendent of the schools in Brownsville, where his bride is a teacher in the same school.

MARION METHODIST SUNDAY SCHOOL NEWS

Attendance last Sunday was 214 in spite of the rain.

Any time you are in Marion, a cordial invitation is extended to you to visit our Sunday School.

Class No. 3 gave as their Christmas offering to the Sunday School this year $175 to be applied on the payment of a new piano for the Primary Department of the Sunday School. The piano has already been bought and installed and the little folks of the Primary department enjoyed it last Sunday. This new addition to the musical equipment gives us three pianos and the organ besides our Sunday School Orchestra.

During the week of January 22-29 the Sunday School is having "Library Week" and is planning during that week to add a hundred or more new books to the Sunday School Library.

At Teachers Meeting Tuesday evening the teachers and officers of the Sunday School made merry at an old-fashioned pound supper.

The Rev. E. N. Hart, pastor of the Main Street Presbyterian church is organizing a Boy Scout Troupe in Marion and the boys of our Sunday School will welcome the opportunity to become scouts.

EIGHTH GRADE DEBATE

Hark! Ye Marionites: no longer regret that you did not live in the days of Demosthenes for the Eighth Grade is developing orators that with little practice are expecting to surpass him along the debating line.

On last Thursday, January 5th, Miss Ann Baillio, Evelyn Wring and Allie Fritts, affirmative, with Avery Reed, Betty Baillio and Ada Nellie Frazer, negative debated the important question: "Resolved that the horse is more useful than the automobile." After forty-five minutes of fierce arguing the young debaters waited patiently for the decision of the judges. The judges were Ebbie Wathen, Laura Butler and Freda Belt, all of whom were from the High School. The decision soon came and in favor of the affirmative.

COUNTY COURT DAY

Monday was the first County Court day of the new year and for the new officers. One case that of establishing a ferry at Blackford, a Mr. Fowler wants the ferry at the same old crossing and Mr. Phillips wants to establish a ferry just below the R. R. bridge. The case took up the whole day and Judge Travis deferred rendering his decision until Saturday. The Judge went to Blackford Wednesday to look over the two sites.

BANQUET

High School Football and Basketball
Teams to be Guests of Honor
Friday Evening

The event of the eating season is at hand. A thing that many of us have been looking forward to for several weeks is about to function. The loyal citizens of Marion have put heads and pocket-books together and the result?—the Banquet in honor of the football and basketball teams of Marion High School. The date is Friday January 13 and the hour is seven.

During the banquet various things will doubtless be discussed: the unseasonable weather; football, past and present; football for next year; our neighbors and—well most everything that goes to make a real banquet. Some of Marion's most talented speakers will explain technicalities of the game of football. Some will speak from the sidelines, others on offside plays and it is understood that the much-used Portfolio of Allis may be dragged from its resting place and reviewed hastily. The music for the occasion will be furnished by the Marion Orchestra.

If each booster of Marion High School's Football and basketball Teams will put up the brand of defense against that Friday-the-thirteenth jinx that our teams have put up against their opponents the affair is bound to be a success.

WELL PLEASED WITH OUR JOB WORK

Salem, Ky.

Crittenden Press:

Gentlemen:

I am well pleased with the printed matter you made for me so I send you a check to pay for it and also for your very new newspaper.

BANKS AIDING IN WILSON FOUNDATION

The Farmers and Marion Banks of Marion and the Farmers Bank of Tolu have kindly consented to receive donations for this fund. It will be more convenient for many to make their contribution direct through one of these banks. Whatever you give will be free will. No one will come to see you about this.

LISTEN! DOG OWNERS It Is Up to You to Get Busy RIGHT NOW!

When I began my term of office as Sheriff, Monday, January the second, I found that County Clerk Guess had sold only 146 Dog Licenses. This is a ridiculous, shameful showing for the law abiding people.

Whether we like the dog law or not, it is still a law, and a law which carries a heavy penalty for those who violate it.

All owners of dogs who do not take out a license for their dog or dogs, as the case may be, are now guilty of violation of the law and are subject to the penalty thereof.

It becomes my duty as Sheriff to see that this Dog Law is enforced, and I must suffer the penalty if I fail to discharge my duty.

If you have to pay the penalty just one time for violating this law, it will amount to enough to pay your annual dog license dog license for many years to come.

If you kill your dog now, it will not clear you of the penalty of the law if you owned or harbored the dog on or before the first day of January. And if during any other month of the year you become the owner of a dog, you are then supposed to license the dog immediately.

It is not fair and right that a few comply with the law and a large majority violate it, therefore being responsible for the enforcement of this Dog Law, I give you warning RIGHT NOW that if by the first day of next month, Wednesday February 1st., you are still no more inclined to obey this law than you now are, I will place a sufficient number of Deputies in the field to scour every nook and corner of this county and see to it that this law is enforced.

JAMES T. WRIGHT,
Sheriff Crittenden County, Kentucky.

The American Legion

WHAT IT IS AND WHAT IT STANDS FOR

The American Legion is a non political, non-sectarian organization of former soldiers, sailors and marines who served this country in the World War.

It was organized by the Yanks while there was still an A. E. F. in France. Its purpose is to aid former service men and women in every legitimate and reasonable way; and to protect as good citizens the sanctity of the United States.

Membership in the American Legion IN NO WAY obligates its members to military or naval duty or in any other duty other than that as ordinary citizens.

The American Legion stands in the same respect to the veterans of the World War as the G. A. R. and the Confederate Veterans stands to the veterans of the Civil War; and in the same respect as the Veterans of Foreign Wars stands to the veterans of the Spanish-American War.

The ELLIS B. ORDWAY POST of the American Legion has been organized recently by the ex-service men of Crittenden county and there are over 400 ex-service men in this county who are eligible to membership in this Post. If you are an ex-service man and have not yet joined this Post you are missing something. There are no bugles in our Post and it is not necessary to procure late passes to enjoy the full benefits of the Ellis B. Ordway Post.

The regular meeting of this Post are the first and third Wednesday nights of each month and the hour is seven. A welcome awaits each and every ex-service man of Crittenden County who calls at our Headquarters.

We are located at present in rooms upstairs in the D. O. Carnahan Building. For further particulars watch this advertisement next week or get in touch with any of the members.

WE WONDER

The Press wonders why the City Council never makes any public statements as the amount of taxes collected and the disposition made of the taxes collected.

We wonder why the City School Board never makes any public statement of how much School Taxes it collects and the disposition made of the same and why the County School Superintendent does not make a public statement of the school funds collected and the disposition made of the same.

Quite a number of tax payers have asked us why these things are not made public and we can only reply that we do not know. It looks to us like such statements would at least let the tax payers know how their money is expended.

PUBLIC SALE!

Douglas O. Carnahan Real Estate
AT
Monday, February 13th, 1922

By order of the referee in Bankruptcy, Hon. Wm. L. Gordon, for the District Court of the United States for the Western District of Kentucky, the undersigned trustee of the bankrupt, Douglas O. Carnahan, will at 1 O'clock P. M. on Monday February 13, 1922, at the premises hereinafter described in the city of Marion, Ky., expose to sale at public outcry to the highest and best bidder, separately, the two pieces of real estate herein after described. Sales will be made upon a credit of six months, and the purchaser or purchasers will execute bond or bonds, with approved security, payable to the trustee having the force and effect of a judgment and enforceable by rule, and bearing interest from date of sale at the rate of six per cent per annum until paid, and a lien will be retained upon the property sold as further security, with the privilege however to the purchaser or purchasers to pay cash in lieu of executing bond; the trustee will reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

Said real estate is described as follows:

1—A certain store house and lot on the corner of Salem and Main Streets in Marion, Ky., same known as lot No. 1 and lot No. 14, fronting 44 feet on Salem Street and running back on Main Street, sometimes called Fords Ferry Street, 85 1-2 feet. (See deed of W. T. McConnell and Wife dated October 10th, 1919 D. R. 45 page 142 Crittenden County Court Clerks Office) which is indivisible in kind without materially impairing its value.

2—Also one lot fronting 21 feet and 11 inches on Main Street in front of the Court House in Marion, Ky., immediately north of the R. F. Wheeler grocery running back at right angles to Main Street 130 feet to an alley, same descended to the bankrupt under the will of W. G. Carnahan. Confession.

If the impulsive, fighting Bill Dale could have heard across the intervening miles the conversation that took place in his old home the next evening, he would probably have followed Ben Littleford's daughter by the next train if he had had to hold it up at the point of an honest blue gun in order to get aboard it.

John K. Dale and his wife had gone into the library with Elizabeth at her request. The three sat down facing each other. The younger woman was ill at ease; she was glad that the lights were subdued and soft. When the silence had become heavy, she straightened in her chair and blurted out falteringly:

"Bill asked me to marry him and I wouldn't do it. I—I thought maybe I—I ought to tell you."

The Dales exchanged glances; then

There was a pound supper at the home of Mr. Arch Oliver last Saturday night.

Mrs. W. R. Gibbs is very ill with pneumonia fever.

they looked back at Elizabeth Littleford. Dale smiled a fatherly smile. Mrs. Dale's eyes narrowed. The old stiffness rose within her and began to make stubborn war against her more recently acquired common sense.

"Have you quarreled?" she asked.

"No."

"Well," old Dale said bluntly, "what's wrong?"

"It isn't his fault," Elizabeth told them. "I'm a savage," she went on desperately—"and he isn't my kind."

John K. Dale retired very early that night. When the sound of his footsteps had died away, his wife bent toward Elizabeth and said curiously:

"Why did you call yourself a savage?"

Elizabeth told of her early life in the hills, of the feud between her people and the Morelands and of how she had hated the bloodshed. She told of the coming of Major Bradley, of her burning thirst for education, of the old trainman who had thrown her a newspaper each day, and of the coming of Bill Dale.

"I was lonesome," she continued, "and nobody ever seemed to understand how I felt. That is, until Bill Dale came. After I met him, I couldn't see anything but him; he seemed to me like something I'd had and lost."

"Then," said Mrs. Dale, "why did you refuse to marry?"

"Wait—you don't know it all," Elizabeth interrupted her. "There was the killing of that heathen, Adam Ball. I went to 'tend the trial because I knew

"Then," said Mrs. Dale, "Why did you refuse to marry?"

I could clear your son if Major Bradley couldn't. You see, Mrs. Dale, I happened to know who did kill Adam Ball, and I meant to tell if it was necessary.

"On the mornin' of the killing Bill had started up the river by himself. It was dangerous for him to go off like that, on account of them Balls and Torreys. Back in the Big Pine country there is a tall, thin man named Sam Heck. He's a big eater, an awful liar, and a worshiper of Bill Dale. Sam heard my father say it was dangerous, and he whispered: 'I'll jest sneak through the laurels and gyard Bill from behind him.' I heard him say it, Mrs. Dale.

"So he went sneakin' along the foot of the north end of David Moreland's mountain, with his rifle in his hand, to guard your son. Bill didn't know he was bein' followed, because Heck is as crafty as a cat. I got nervous about Bill, so I went into the laurels and followed Sam Heck. When I overtook him, he was standin' behind a clump of sheep laurel and lookin' toward the river.

"I whispered, 'Where's Bill?' He said, 'Be still, Babe!' And then he thumbed his rifle's hammer back without a sound.

"I looked toward the river and saw Bill Dale a-walkin' up the nearest bank, and I saw Black Adam slip behind a tree not far away. Bill saw Adam, and he slipped behind a tree, too. Adam shot at Bill's hat, and teased Bill. Bill shot at Adam's hat—and then Adam Ball jumped up ground-like like he was done for, and fell, all a-twistin', to the ground. But he wasn't hit. He put his gun out by the tree to kill Bill as soon as he showed himself. It was one of his old tricks."

Elizabeth Littleford raised her head slowly and went on in a voice that was much shaken:

"I had always talked against killin', and yet I stood there and begged Sam Heck to finish him. The rest happened in no time. Ball was already a-lookin' along his sights. Bill Dale was nearly out in the open. I—I faltered, and then came a rush of words: 'I wouldn't marry him without tellin' him, because it wouldn't be fair to him; and if I told him, he—he wouldn't have me. The woman he marries mustn't be a—savage.'"

She stopped and stared at Mrs. Dale almost defiantly. Her head was high, and her hands were clasped in her lap so hard that they trembled.

"I think you have made a mountain out of a molehill, my dear," the older woman said gently. "What you did was right, not wrong; any good woman would have done just what you did, Elizabeth, I am sure."

Elizabeth Littleford faced Mrs. John K. Dale squarely. There was a strange glow in her eyes.

"But I haven't told you everything, she murmured—"I took Sam Heck's rifle from him, and killed Adam Ball myself."

CHAPTER XVII.

Bill Dale Laughs.

Bill Dale sat thinking of what he had done there in the Big Pine country. From the stone-and-clay chimneys of the cabins of the Littlefords on the other side of the river the howling wind snatched sprays of blue wood-smoke. The Morelands had gone to farms lying around Cartersville in the lowland, on each of which a fair-sized first payment had been made, the borrowed capital was to remain borrowed for another year. The Morelands were already losing their outlandishness and growing into universal respect. David Moreland's dream was at last being realized.

Then Dale frowned heavily. If only he could do as much for Babe's people! But he couldn't. The men of the Littlefords still worked the coal mine. They received almost twice the customary wages, but even that wouldn't buy them farms and educate their children.

Under his eyes lay two unanswered letters from his parents. He found little pleasure in answering their letters, for he was still somewhat bitter toward them—toward his father because of his father's ill treatment of David Moreland and David Moreland's people; toward his mother because she had let him go hungry for mother-love as a baby, as a child, as a boy, and as a man; toward them both because he had been reared a do-nothing.

The door opened suddenly, and by Heck came stamping in with a gust of cold air at his back. He carried in one hand the mail satchel; in the other was his ever-present rifle. After throwing the satchel to the floor at Dale's feet, he turned to the glowing wood stove.

"I'm dang nigh friz, Bill," he chattered. "My gosh, I couldn't be no colder'n what I am ef I'd ha' clim' the north pole neck-ed. Say, Bill, why'n't ye burn coal 'tild o' wood? I gosh, it's hotter."

"Coal is worth money. Wood isn't."

Dale ran through the mail hastily. He threw aside a letter from the Alexander Crayfield Coal corporation, which took the entire output of the mine at an extraordinary figure, and picked up a letter which bore the postmark of his home city.

It was from Babe Littleford. Since he paid so little attention to the letters of his parents, they had requested her to write to him—they wanted him to come home for Christmas dinner. Wouldn't he come?

He arose and paced the office floor for two or three minutes, then he sat down at his desk and dashed off a letter that contained only two sentences.

By Heck sat beside the stove and watched his god with thoughtful eyes. He understood, he believed. How any woman on earth could turn down a man like Bill Dale was utterly beyond him. By Heck was a great deal like a good-natured dog.

If Bill would only laugh, it would be good for him. It had been so long since he had heard Bill laugh. By Heck decided that he would make Bill Dale laugh.

"Old boy?"

"Well?"

"Do ye want me to tell ye a funny tale?" drawled Heck. He barely heard the answer:

"I guess I don't mind, By."

Heck's sympathy made him gulp. But he swallowed the lump that came up in his throat and began bravely:

"One time the' was a feller named Smith. Odd name, Bill, ain't it? 'Hoss-ky' Smith, they called him, 'cause it was said 'at he could easy shoot a heffly often a hoss's ear and never break hide on the animal. He was a hellion, too. One time Hossky, he was a-tryin' to git applited the chairman o' some sort o' politics doin's, and on that same day he was a-drinkin' sort o' to'able heavy. They agreed to make him the temporary chairman, but Hossky, he didn't want that. So he hops right up in the middle o' the meetin', and he hollers out and says:

"Feller citizens," he says, 'I want to be the permanent chairman! I ain't agoin' to act in the capacity of a durned temporary chairman; I abso-d-n-tely ain't!'"

"His old enemy, Eb Wright, he gets back and says smart-like: 'Set down thar, Hossky,' says Eb—"you're drunk, and you don't know the difference a-tween temporary and permanent!"

"Well, they knowed Eb had it a-comin' to him right then, and they listened fo' it. Hossky, he addresses the whole meetin', and this here is what Hossky says:

"Feller citizens," says he, 'Eb Wright thar 'tows I don't know the difference a-tween temporary and permanent. I'll prove to you that I do know the difference. Eb Wright says I'm drunk. I am. That's temporary. Eb Wright is a poke-nosed idjit. That's permanent!'"

Heck finished with a lazy laugh: "Haw, haw, haw! Hee-haw, hee-haw!"

"That story," Dale said wearily, "has been told on dozens of politicians. It has become a part of the history of this state."

"Well, my gosh!" moaned By Heck. He thought deeply for a moment, decided that Bill Dale wouldn't laugh at the story of Tom Jones' pig—which had drank all of a gallon-pail of butter-milk and then gone to sleep in the self-same pail—and went on:

"Here's one, by Jake, 'at ain't been told on dozens o' politicians. And every word of it is the solemn, dyin' death-bed truth, too."

"One time I was out in the mountains a-huntin' along slow and a-lookin' fo' a squirrel, when all of a sudden I hears a skeery noise right ahead o' me in the laurels—Z-z-z-z-z!"

"Z-z-z-z-z! Best like that. I stops. I suppose dead still. I looks keen. Thar was a den o' rattlers, and the very next one was as big around as my left hind laig! Then I hears a turrible growl right ahead o' me. I looks keen. Thar stands a big old she-bear with her teeth a-showin', and two cross-eyed cubs! Then I hears a whine at my left. I looks keen. Thar stands a she-panther as big as a hoss, with her eyes jest a-blazin'! Then I hears a spittin' sound out to my right. I looks keen. Thar was seven full-grown wildcats, and all of 'em had been bit by a mad dawg! Some fix to be in? Yeah; some fix!"

"Well, I thinks to myself. Ef I shoots the rattlers, I thinks to myself, the bear and the panther and the wildcats'll git me. And ef I shoots the bear, the panther and the wildcats'll git me. And ef I shoots the panther, the wildcats and the rattlers'll git me. And ef I shoots the rattlers and the bear'll git me. And ef I shoots the wildcats, the rattlers and the bear and the panther'll git me. And ef I don't shoot none of 'em, they'll all git me! Some ogoddy reckon I got out of it?"

Bill Dale only smiled. "I can't imagine, By," he said.

"I can't imagine, neither," grinned Heck. "But anyhow, I'm alive today. Well, now that ye're in a good humor one time more, I'll tell ye some news. I hated to ruffle ye up like a yaller goose a-flyin' back'ards whilst ye was so cussed, danged blue. Bill, old boy, it ain't but five days ontel Christmas. A lot o' them Nawth Ca'liner Turners from Turner's Laurel is a-visitin' their kinfolks, the Balls, and they'll every daddslatted one of 'em git drunk on white lightning' ficker for Christmas, and—they'll shore think o' Black Adam. The Morelands ain't with ye no more, Bill, rickollect; only the Littlefords is here now."

Bill Dale rose and stood there staring at By Heck with eyes so bright that they sparkled.

"If they came down on us looking for trouble, I'd be a sort of clan chief, wouldn't I?" he asked. Without waiting for an answer: "I wouldn't mind that, yknow. I've got a letter here, By, that I want you to put aboard the next southbound train that passes the Halfway switch. You've got about an hour; can you make it?"

"Ef the world was made in six days, by God, it shorely looks like By Heck could make six miles in a hour, don't it?"

The tall hillman left the Moreland Coal company's office with the letter in one hand, his rifle in the other, and tears of joy in his eyes.

For Bill Dale had laughed, actually laughed.

By Heck put the letter on the train. The train carried it to Bill Dale's home city, and the postman carried it to the stately mansion of Old Coal King John K. Dale, and black Isham, the servant, carried it to Miss Elizabeth Littleford.

Miss Elizabeth Littleford was sitting alone on an iron settee among bushes of lilac and cape jessamine; the weather had made another of its remarkably sudden changes, and the day was sunny and pleasant. She was about to tear open the envelope when the tall, straight figure of Jimmy Fayne appeared before her. He had on riding clothes, and there was a rawhide quirt in his hand.

"You scared me, Jimmy!" laughed Miss Elizabeth, a trifle nervously. "I

"As I told you, Jimmy, I don't—" He interrupted almost sharply: "I know you don't love me. But you'll learn to—after you've seen how much I shall adore you."

He made a move as though to take her into his arms, and she shrank from him; he had done that same thing, and she had done that same thing, dozens of times before. . . . With unseeing eyes Elizabeth watched Mrs. Dale step from her motor at the porte-cochere and go into the house. Jimmy Fayne, too, saw Mrs. Dale, but he was wholly unaffected by the sight of her; Mrs. Dale, somehow, did not object to his seeing the girl quite as much as she had once objected.

"Jimmy," after a long silence had passed between them, "I—I'm afraid I ain't the right woman for you. . . . If you knew, for sure, that I once took a rifle gun and killed a man with it, would you—would you still want me?"

Fayne laughed as though at a good joke.

"You kill a man? Why, I couldn't believe it. But if you had killed a man, or a dozen men, it—it could hardly make any difference to me. If you did do it, you did it because there was nothing else to do; I'm sure of that. We won't mention it again, if you're willing. I neither criticize nor attempt to understand your hill codes. Marry me, won't you, Elizabeth?"

"If I did," asked Ben Littleford's daughter, "would you help my people back in the hills?"

"Educate 'em? Yes! Every blessed one of 'em."

"Freely?"

"Yes!"

Once more Elizabeth Littleford tried to decide. Fayne's eyes grew more and more hopeful as he watched her lips. He became impatient.

"Tell me," he begged.

The girl took up the letter she had just received from Bill Dale.

"As soon as I read this," she murmured, "I'll tell you, Jimmy. If you don't mind, please look the other way for a minute."

She tore off one end of the envelope, drew out the single sheet and unfolded it. Her eyes narrowed; her face flushed, and then became just a little pale. Her underlip quivered as she folded the sheet and put it back into the envelope.

"I can't marry you, Jimmy," she told him.

Without another word she arose and left him. She hastened to the house, hastened upstairs, and went to her room.

Half an hour later Mrs. Dale found her lying face downward on her bed, and beside her lay a crumpled sheet of paper. Mrs. Dale picked up the sheet, straightened it out, and read this, in the bold handwriting of her son:

"Believe me, I am very appreciative of your invitation. But I am having Christmas with your mother, here in my own country."

MAKE THE PARK PRACTICAL

Care and Thought Bestowed on Recreation Ground Will Be Found Thoroughly Worth While.

The recreational value of our public parks is, of course, a scientifically practical value. Play is essential to the health and success of a nation. Any form of play is beneficial. Any recreation which calls into use brain centers which are not used in our serious routine work is improving. Even the least healthful forms of play, recreations which do not tend to help our physical well-being, have a certain value in that they rest the over-worked part of our brains and thus tend to save us from neuroses and nervous breakdowns. The best form of recreation, however, is that which takes us into the open air, provides wholesome exercise, and aids brain and body at the same time. For city residents the parks supply an ample field for recreation of this kind.

The "City Practical."

"Never use the word 'city beautiful' when you are trying to sell a city plan to your city or community," advises a real estate expert. "Use 'city practical' and 'city efficient,' for out of the practical city will come the beautiful city. There has been a wrong impression that city planning is nothing more or less than the embellishment and beautification of the city, whereas it is the lopping off of the unnecessary things; it is cutting down to the practical things that makes it responsive to every call that is put upon it; and out of that order, out of that very rhythm of movement, out of the ability to do the things placed upon it, will come 'the city beautiful.'"

How Town "Grows."

A town thrives the best and accomplishes the most when it grows. It grows when its citizens grow. Its citizens grow when they have mind-power and soul-power. True growth means making today better than yesterday, tomorrow better than today. Growth means changing ourselves to conform to outward circumstances. Growth is finding ourselves, getting rid of shortcomings and utilizing what is really worth the effort.

HIGH QUALITIES OF FANCY FOWLS

Ornamental Varieties May Provide Attractive Revenue When Properly Developed.

HAMBURG IS PROLIFIC LAYER

Principal Characteristic of Frizzles Is Peculiar Feathering—Have No Particular Qualities to Recommend Them.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Eggs and meat for home uses or for marketing are not the only possibilities of the poultry industry. In addition to the fowls kept primarily for their economic value or utility there are many throughout the country whose owners breed them merely for pleasure and secondly for the profits more than likely to result in supplying others whose fancy takes the same channel.

Ornamental breeds and varieties may and often do possess considerable economic value, and some of them undoubtedly could be developed, ac-

Golden Pencil Hamburg.

According to the poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, into birds having high utility qualities. For example, the Hamburgs are fowls which always have been rated as very prolific layers, although their eggs are small. Because they have not been extensively kept in this country and because they have not been bred very systematically for any purpose except exhibition, their utility qualities have not been developed to the highest possible point. In the same way the Polish fowls frequently are prolific layers, but the crests they carry, while unique in appearance and adding greatly to their beauty, are handicaps when the birds are kept for utility purposes.

In the Polish breed are these varieties: White-Crested Black, Bearded Golden, Bearded Silver, Bearded White, Buff Laced, Non-Bearded Golden, Non-Bearded Silver, and Non-Bearded White. The Hamburg breed has these varieties: Golden Spangled, Silver Spangled, Golden Pencil, Silver Pencil, White and Black.

Farmer's Bulletin 1221, recently issued by the Department of Agriculture, credits the game breed with eight varieties: Black-Breasted Red, Brown Red, Golden Duckwing, Silver Duckwing, Birchen, Red Pyle, White, and Black.

The Oriental class includes two breeds, the Sumatra of which there is one variety, the Black, and the Malay with one, the Black-Breasted Red. The Standard of Perfection gives this class also the Black-Breasted Red Malay Bantam.

The miscellaneous class includes two breeds, the Sultan and the Frizzles, and the Standard of Perfection includes with it the Silkies, a bantam breed.

Types of Plumage and Form.

The ear lobes of all Polish chickens are white, the eggs are white, and the hens are classed as nonsitting or nonbroody. The legs and toes are slate blue in all varieties except the White-Crested Black in which they are a darker blue, approaching black. The skin is gray or grayish white, which does not recommend the birds for table purposes in this country where the demand is for yellow-skinned fowls. The crest which all Polish carry is characteristic of the breed and adds much to its beauty. The contrast between the white crest and the black body of the White-Crested Black makes this variety very beautiful, and rather difficult to breed in perfection.

The color scheme of the Bearded Golden Polish is very beautiful, the plumage being a golden bay laced with black throughout except for the buff, which is light bay with some black mixture or tinge, and for the primary feathers which are bay with a black end. The color schemes of the male and female are identical.

The Bearded White Polish is a pure white throughout, free from any foreign color.

The Hamburg, said to have originated in Holland, although the name has come from the German city of Hamburg, is a small fowl, if anything, smaller than the Leghorn. There is more or less variation in size among the varieties, the Black and Silver Spangled tending to run largest. There are no standard weights for this breed. In type it resembles the Leghorn very closely. The birds are neat bodied, well rounded, and well finished throughout. The comb is rose, and runs rather large for the size of the bird. The ear lobes are of good size, white and nearly round.

Hamburg Popular in Europe.

The Hamburg lays white eggs, and the birds are classed as nonsitting and nonbroody. In Europe these birds have an enviable reputation as layers of large numbers of eggs, but they have not been kept and bred extensively along that line in this country. The small size of the egg has been one reason for this.

An interesting peculiarity of the Sumatra, one of the Oriental class, is the small red ear lobe on a hen laying a white egg. The breed is classed generally as broody, and the hens have the reputation of being excellent mothers. The Sumatras are black throughout, the surface having a very highly developed green sheen, while the undercolor is dull black.

The Frizzles, in the miscellaneous class, are peculiar birds. In an exhibition they are certain to attract attention. Their principal characteristic is the peculiar feathering. Instead of the feathers growing in the usual manner, they have a curled or curved appearance, the end of the feather tending to curl up and back toward the fowl's head. A considerable variation occurs in the amount of this curling, but the more pronounced it is the better. The comb should be single, and the number of toes four. A number of colors are allowed in the Frizzles, without dividing the breed into separate varieties. These are black, white, red, and bay, the only requirement being that each bird shall be a solid color unmixed with any others. Shown in pens the birds, male and female, shall be of the same color. Frizzles are not often seen in this country, and are kept only on account of their unusual appearance. They have no particular qualities to recommend them over normally feathered fowls.

The bulletin referred to above, No. 1221, contains complete descriptions of many of these interesting and peculiar breeds and varieties of ornamental poultry.

BALANCED RATION IS ESSENTIAL FOR EGGS

New Things Discovered to Be Given Consideration.

To Overcome Acid in Feed Mixtures Necessary to Supply Meat Scrap or Something Similar—Fresh Milk Will Help.

Every person who keeps poultry is sure to be impressed sooner or later by the importance of feeding well-balanced rations, especially for the production of eggs. Ordinarily a balanced ration means a ration that has the proportions of carbohydrates, protein and fat that have been found by experience to produce the best results, but new things are being discovered that need to be given consideration in balancing a ration. For instance, it is now thought that it may be well to have a balance between the acid and alkaline feeds and that there is a possibility that the continued use of an acid-forming diet may lead to a greater susceptibility to certain diseases.

The grain mixtures that are commonly used by poultrymen are acid. Mash mixtures containing sufficient quantities of digester tankage, meat and bone meal, dried milk or dried blood will be alkaline. The acid in feed mixtures can be overcome by these feeds just mentioned and by ground limestone and oyster shell. This further emphasizes the necessity of feeding a mash containing meat scrap or some feed of this kind. Green feed and fresh milk also help to overcome acidity.

FEED FOR PIGS AND POULTRY

Nothing Better Than Buttermilk for Supply of Protein in Most Digestible Form.

There is nothing so good for an all-round feed for pigs and poultry as buttermilk. It furnishes protein in the most digestible form, and contains the vitamins that are now known to be absolutely essential for the growth of the young and the health of all animals.

SUGAR BEET CULTURE HAS LARGE GROWTH

Farmers Received $99,000,000 for Crop in 1920.

Any Fertile Soil Capable of Producing Good Yields of Other Crops Will, If Properly Handled, Prove Satisfactory.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The sugar-beet industry of the United States produced more than 1,000,000 tons of sugar and the 100 factories, 97 of which were in operation in 15 states, paid American farmers more than $99,000,000 for their beets in 1920.

In a comprehensive new bulletin, No. 905, "The Sugar Beet Industry in the United States," the United States Department of Agriculture says that almost any fertile soil capable of producing good yields of other crops will, if properly handled, produce good sugar beets. This statement, however, is restricted by considerations of climate, moisture, and topography as related to the question of producing enough beets of the requisite sugar content within reasonable hauling distance to maintain a sugar-beet factory.

The bulletin reviews the history of the sugar-beet industry from the first mill, built in 1870 at Alvarado, Cal.; analyzes soil, climatic and topographic requirements; and deals at length with the necessary equipment, best methods of planting and cultivation; the important relation of the sugar-beet to the live stock industry; the management of parallel and rotating crops; the labor problem; insect and disease enemies of sugar beets; and the business of selling beets to the sugar manufacturers. "The successful production of sugar beets on any farm depends to a great extent upon the temperament of the farmer and upon his attitude toward the production of this crop," says the bulletin, adding that the man who handles cows, especially dairy cows, is more inclined to take up the growing of such an intensive crop as sugar beets and is more apt to succeed in this line than the grain or forage crop man.

A list of more than fifty department publications on different phases of the beet-sugar industry is included in the bulletin, which may be had free upon application to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

KEEP DRINKING WATER CLEAN

Overhanging Strip Prevents Fowls From Roosting on Edge or Getting into Trough.

To keep drinking water clean, provide a low shelf on the inside of the poultry house for the water trough and an overhanging strip, as shown in the sketch. The wood strip is fastened just far enough above the top of the trough to allow the chickens to drink easily, but prevents them from roosting there, or getting into the trough. Pans or basins can be used with the same arrangement, although if a trough is made for the purpose, it will fit in better and, during the winter months, the ice will be forced upward and there will be no danger of breaking. This arrangement will be found excellent for feeding the flock hot mash and other feeds, also.—Dale R. Van Horn of Nebraska, in the Farm Journal.

CLEAN UP ALL GARDEN TRASH

Insects and Disease Spores Live Over Winter in Stalks, Vines and Other Rubbish.

Much of the success of next year's garden depends on cleaning up the trash left from this year's crop, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Insects and disease spores live over the winter in stalks, vines, and stubble. Weeds and vegetable debris should be raked into piles and burned or carried off as soon as it is convenient to do so. Pieces of cabbage, carrots, potatoes, and other vegetables which have been left on the ground in the harvest should be raked up and destroyed to avoid attracting insects and rabbits. The rabbits, tempted by these titbits, may remain to bark the fruit trees and damage bushes. Time given to this work at a period of year when other matters are not pressing will be well repaid in the spring and summer.

SODIUM FLUORID GETS LICE

Mixed With Road Dust It Has Been Found to Be an Excellent Remedy by Experts.

A combination of sodium fluorid and road dust, mixed one part of fluorid to four parts of dust, is an excellent remedy for body lice on fowls, according to investigations by poultry experts at the University of California. Sodium fluorid costs 40 cents a pound and that quantity is sufficient to treat 100 hens.

THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

Saving is Hard--

But when you look back to a point in your life three years ago and compare the difference in your income you wonder why you can't save at least a small part of it.

It's true that conditions are not the same—that the value of the dollar is not the same—but if you save nothing each week you are really just breaking even.

This Bank is willing to co-operate with you in helping you prepare a future for yourself. Call on us today and talk it over.

He Never Heard of Political Fences

I KNEW IT! I KNEW IT! THE DAY THEY WERE ISSUING BRAINS, YOU WERE "A.W.O.L." HERE I INTRODUCE YOU TO A UNITED STATES SENATOR AND WHAT DO YOU DO BUT ASK HIM WHY HE ISN'T IN WASHINGTON WORKING!

IF THAT'S THE WAY YOU'RE GOING TO ACT IN WASHINGTON, YOU BETTER START TAKING LESSONS OF JACK DEMPSY RIGHT OFF, BEFORE SOMEONE KNOCKS YOU OVER THE WASHINGTON MONUMENT

NO, THE SENATOR WON'T GET DOCKED FOR BEING AWAY! HE IS PAID $75.00 A YEAR AND HE'S GOING HOME TO LOOK AFTER HIS "FENCES"

WELL, MY GOSH, IF HE'S MAKING SO MUCH MONEY, WHY DON'T HE HIRE A GOOD, CHEAP CARPENTER TO NAIL UP HIS OLE FENCES?

KENTUCKY'S THOROUGHBRED CONTRIBUTION TO THE NATION

Under the Pari-Mutual System the Kentucky Jockey Club Has Lifted Racing to the Highest Plane—An Example to the Whole Country—$3,479,675.00 Distributed in Three Years

(From the New York Rider and Driver)

Whenever the thoroughbred is mentioned, Kentucky, the home of Man o' War, and for a hundred years the center of the breeding industry in this country, always comes to mind. It is not possible to conceive of racing in America without the yearly contribution of thoroughbreds from the Bluegrass State. There are great breeding farms in New York, Virginia, California and elsewhere, but the very life blood of the thoroughbred comes from Kentucky's ever-flowing fountain. In this favored State, with its fertile fields deep in bluegrass throughout the winter, the horse reaches perfection.

The Rider and Driver does not know of any greater calamity that could happen to the horse industry than for Kentucky to turn against the thoroughbred, and destroy the great breeding industry, which has not only made the State world-famous, but has aided every farmer in America by improving the breed of horses. The War Department has repeatedly gone on record in favor of the thoroughbred, without which the Army would not have suitable remounts. The Remount Service, in charge of United States Army officers, has established breeding farms with thoroughbred stallions at their head, horses that have had their speed, courage and endurance tried in contests on the turf. These great nurseries will provide the type of cavalry horse that the Army needs, and every farmer in this country cannot only aid the cause by sending his mares to thoroughbred studs, but can be assured of reaping a substantial profit, as the War Department is constantly in the market for horses of this character.

Racing in Kentucky, under the direction of the Kentucky Jockey Club is not only a credit to the State, but with the pari-mutuel system perfected, it has set an example to the world in point of high-class contests, clean racing, generous stakes and purses. Under the old order, the meetings were dragged out to an interminable length, in one year one hundred and fifty-five days, and in another year one hundred and seventy-four.

Under the State Racing Commission, created by an Act of the Legislature, the number of days on which racing is permitted has been cut to one hundred and eight. There is strict supervision of all turf matters, with the result that beginning with the Kentucky Derby, with $50,000 added, which has been run at Churchill Downs for forty-seven years, the quality of racing in Kentucky sets the standard for the whole country.

Formerly turfmen raced for $400 purses, and the amount distributed yearly ran from $300,000 to $600,000. Since the organization of the Kentucky Jockey Club, three years ago, the amount distributed daily in stakes and purses averaged over $11,500, and the yearly total was as follows:

1920 1,200,800.00

1921 1,281,085.00

Total $3,479,675.00

The Kentucky Jockey Club pays over $270,000 each year into the State Treasury in license fees and pays $40,000 additional in State, City and County taxes.

With millions of dollars invested in farm lands devoted exclusively to the breeding of thoroughbreds, and other millions invested in horses that have no superior in the world, the Rider and Driver believes that the Kentucky Legislature, made up of level-headed farmers and business men, will refuse to destroy this valuable industry which it has heretofore sanctioned and encouraged.
